

THE LEADERS OF design COUNCIL

HOW TO BUILD CULTURE AND LEADERSHIP TO BRING OUT THE BEST IN YOUR TEAM

JANUARY 25, 2018

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

122 EAST 66TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY

10AM - 5PM

FOLLOWED BY THE YOUNG COLLECTORS NIGHT
AT THE WINTER ANTIQUES SHOW, PARK AVENUE ARMORY

Leaders with strong self-awareness, executive presence, emotional intelligence, and a sense of purpose shape work environments to foster the highest levels of employee engagement and performance. This seminar will examine exactly what is organizational culture, and why is it so important?

How are cultures built, both intentionally and unintentionally? What are roadmaps to healthy changes? Kris Lonsway Ph.D is a noted industrial and organizational psychologist and educator who helps leaders navigate change, develop talent, and create change. She developed and will lead this workshop, exclusively for the Leaders of Design Council members and their senior staff.

$925.00 per person

Includes lunch and take away materials

Registration is limited and is expected to fill quickly. To reserve your space, please complete the registration form Here. As always, this invitation is for you personally and may not be transferred.

This event is planned for Leaders of Design Council members. If you are not yet a member and would like to be considered, please contact Dana Colla dcolla@leadersofdesign.com for information.

© Leaders of Design 2017